BIEDENFELD'S WIDOW SMILES.

Coroner Eidman began an inquest this morning in the case of Halberg Biedenfeld, the German druggist of 3 Second avenue, who died on Sunday last after accusing his clerk, Anders Holm, with having injured him in a quarrel over the Friday night before.

Biedenfeld had a young wife and was jeal-

Maurice Meyer represented young Holm as counsel.

Mrs. Biedenfeld was in the audience. She is a plump, well-rounded little woman, with a pretty face, which was made more attractive by the widow's bonnet and veil. But the round face was not mournful. The cherry mouth smiled and showed pretty teeth.

Coroner Eidman had selected jurors from the neighborhood whom he could vouch for and who knew all of the parties. After two had been excused for deficiency in their knowledge of English, the following remained:

Imaned:

1. Kolosius, 128 Kast Houston street; Philip Ettel, 187 East Houston street; Henry Lampe, 88 First avenue; John Weiss, 17., 282 Kast Houston street; P. Dolzader, 10 Second swenue; C. Baruth, 70 Second avenue; C. P. O'Nelli, 81. Augustine's Chapei; C. J. Wahig, 14 Second avenue, and Edwin Hotz, 263 Bowery.

Dr. J. G. Rumler, of 31 First street, testi-fied that he attended Biedenfeld at 4.30 A. M. on Saturday. He continued:

on Saturday. He continued:

Biedenfeld said to me, ''I have received a very severe blow from my clerk, Andes Holm, and he is my murderer, for I know I am going to die."

Mrs. Biedenfeld then interrupted, saying:

"Don't believe him, doctor. Don't pay any attention to him; he is full of beer and wine and don't know what he is talking about. Mr. Biedenfeld fell over a soap-box and Mr. Holm fell on him."

I found Mr. Biedenfeld under the influence of iquor. On Saturday afternoon Biedenfeld went liquor. On Saturday afternoon medented well-out on the street.

Coroner Eidman—Were you told when you called Saturday morning that there had been an all night sturday morning that I was told that they had grank beer and wine all night. To Mr. Meyer Dr. Rumler said :

I think Biedenfeld was under the influence of liquor when he told me he had been murdored. I did not think him in danger of teath, but he was not so drunk that he did not know what he was talking about. Mrs. Biedenfeld was sober on both cocasions.

Coroner's Physician Scholer testified that he found no marks of violence on the bedy of Biedenfeld, but there was a rupture of the liver an inch and a half long.

The liver and kidney showed that Biedenfeld was a heavy drinker. The rupture might have resulted from a fall or a blow.

Dr. Franz Serr, of 2 Second avenue, testified that he was called to see Biedenfeld at 1 p. M. on Saturday, and found him in much pain, but thought he was in no danger.

He saw him again at 5.30 o'clock and found him improved.

they retained Supt. Walmsley and permitted the girls to go on strike.

This afternoon a petition will be presented to Mr. Clark asking that Walmsley be discharged and that Foremen Douglass and Spillane be reinstated. No persons have as yet applied for the vacant places.

In the event of non-compliance Judge Mc. Carty has advised that the Federal statutes regulating imported contract labor be invoked, as it is claimed Walmsley was brought from Scotland by the firm under conditions which are prohibited by the law, and under which the engagement for a rector of Trinity Church, in New York, was brought to public notice recently.

Walmsley's complaints were that the girls dressed above their position in life, and that they did not adopt the servile attitude towards him to which he had been accustomed in factory girls inScotland.

Pires to be Drawn in Glass Works. The manager of the Empire Flint Glass Works, in Kent avenue, Brooklyn, said to-day that the manu facturers had resolved to draw the fires in their works to-morrow unless the men yield. The fires have already been drawn in the Gleason Works.

The finit-glass works at New Bedford and Meriden are reported to have received permission from the Manufacturers' Association to reopea for the reason that they are small concerns.

Brooklyn Knights of Labor.

It is reported that the Knights of Labor of Brooklyn will make a combined effort next sunday to obtain control of the Central Labor Union of that city, and a warm time is expected. The independent trades and labor unions hold the supremacy in the Central Union at present, and they will rally in force to maintain it.

BROWN AND TAN SHADES

Biedenfeld had a young wife and was jealous. The quarrel grew out of her attentions to a former clerk, Leo Polzer, who was one of the party. Detective William Rourke, of the Fifth street police, brought Holm into the Coroner's court. Holm is a Swede, twenty-seven years old, and married. His hair and little mustache are straw color. His naturally long, woe-begone face was made sadder by his situation. His hands and feet were in constant motion, and his large, light-blue eyes wandered from object to object in the distressingly unornamented court-room. His young wife sat in court weeping pitifully. Maurice Meyer represented young Holm as counsel. 18th st., 19th st. and 6th ave

THEY WILL CLUB NO MORE. Policemen McGuire and Irving Suspended the very best goods.

Policeman Joseph P. McGuire, of the Mulberry street station-house, and John Irving, of the Mercer street squad, who engaged in a fierce duel with long night-sticks in Bleecker street last night, in a quarrel over two women, were this morning summoned before Supt. Murray. The evidence seemed the strongest against Rogers, Peet & Co., McGuire, for, as Inspector Conlin expressed it, the blood from the fight was on the north it, the blood from the fight was on the north side of the street, in the Fifteenth Precinct, where McGuire had no excuse for going.

The charge against them, when considered with the attending circumstances, is one of the most serious ones that can be made against a policeman.

The Superintendent reprimanded them sharply for their gross misbehavior, which had entailed disgrace upon their uniform and the department to which they are attached, and then took from each one his shield and suspended him from duty.

Complaints were served upon them before they left the building, so that the Commissioners can put them on trial on Monday and they left the building, so that the Commis-sioners can put them on trial on Monday and openly dismiss them from the force at once or on the following day.

McGuire has been on the force about three years. When in the department only a few weeks he summoned Policaman Powers to his assistance, called a man out of a salcon on Sixth avenue, clubbed him unmercifully and left him lying on the street without making an arfest.

and left him lying on the street without making an arrest.

Inspector Williams, who was Captain of the old Twenty-ninth, now the Nineteenth Precinct, put the man on trial, his object being to get rid of McGuire as a man totally unfitted to be on the police force. The trial took place before Commissioner Porter, who, instead of recommending him for dismissal, fined him thirty days pay and transferred him to another precinct.

him to another precinct.

Irving has a much better record and has been regarded as a good policeman, but his fate is sealed now, and he will follow Mc-Guire into retirement.

The Mulberry street returns give McGuire as the first assailant, while Capt. Brogan's returns are ominously silent on the subject, the superior officers there not being able to speak a good word for him.

BROKER SIDMAN ON HAND.

Seeking to Avoid Nobody.

Alfred Sidman, the broker who was yesterday reported to have left the city to avoid his creditors, was found by a reporter of THE EVENING WORLD at the office of his former partner, Mr. E. W. Simpson, 51 Exchange

Although Mr. Sidman stated that by the advice of his lawyer he would make no formal answer to the stories published about him, he said:

"You see that I am in town and I propose to stay here. I was in the city yesterday, although I did not come to the office, and I want it well understood that I am not seeking to avoid anybody."

The tenants of the three-story frame building 34 Mann street were aroused at 1, 20 o'clock this mornmain sirect were aroused at 1.50 clock this morning by a fire on the first floor, occupied by Patrick Manning as a fiquor store. The women and children rushed out into the bilinding snow-storm only partly dressed. The overheated stove which caused the damage was found by the firemen in the rear red hot. Engine Company No. 20 had no ditriculty in extinguishing the stames, and the tenants after being out of their beds half an hour went back.

Boller-Felters Issue an Address. The Steam-Pipe and Boller-Felters' Union to-day assued a statement to the public, in which it reviews the action of the employers and asserts that the demand for $2.50 a day is fair and just and that union men are all skilled and experienced work-men. There is practically no change in the situa-tion to-day. The strikers say that the bosses are under bonds to forfeit $250 to their association if they employ union men.

There are no locks on the door of Mrs. Crowley's room. When she retired last night she placed a fur-lined cloak, valued at $15, which she had borrowed from Mrs. Max Porges, over the bedstead. At 3 o'clock this morning a noise in the room awakened her, and by the light of a lamp in the next room she saw Wunch going out of the door with the cloak in his possession.

She sprang out of bed and bravely seized the burglar, who was out in the hallway by this time. Mrs. Crowley's cries brought Policeman Callahan, of the Delancey street squad, to the scene and Wunch was arrested. Wunch persisted that he was not the burglar. She called her husband, who, with the help of the tenants, succeeded in putting out the fire. The police are of the opinion that the fire is the work of an incendiary. The damage was trifting. An investigation will be made.

Mr. Welsh, at the advice of his physician, started for Atlantic City for a few days' rest. No trace of him has been found since he left Camden. He was suffering very much from overwork. His mother and sister, who are greatly distressed at his sudden disappearance, fear that he has met with foul play. He was thirty-seven years old and unmarried. Henry E. Jones, of 28 West Twenty-fifth street, called at Police Headquarters this morning, and reported that Hannah Dovle, seventy-two years old, had left home on Jan. 11 to visit Mrs. Gerrity, at 1930 Lexington avenue, but had not been heard from since. Except that the right eye, near which the bullet entered, is blackened and the muscles slightly distorted, the dead man's face looks natural.

Deputy Coroner Conway thinks that Mr. Houston's recent illness may have produced congestion of the brain and a suicidal impulse, which lasted only a minute. Mr. Houston was a man of great muscular strength and will power. Several times after he had shot himself he tried to rise from his couch and walk.
